Consignment Policies:

- Articles are left for consignment with the understanding that those items considered salable will be priced and put on the sales racks as soon as possible. The Lily Pad determines the price and reserves the right to refuse any item. Check with the store or our website for a list of items and the season we are currently accepting.
- Items left for "Leave It and Leap" that are deemed unacceptable for consignment will be donated to local charities.
- If a hole, rip, stain or other flaws are found at the time of tagging or once on the rack, the item will be donated.
- Consignors may reclaim unsold items the last 5 days of their consignment period. Consignment period is sixty (60) days. The Lily Pad reserves the right to extend consignment period. If items are unclaimed, they will become property of The Lily Pad. Depending on when you come to pick up your items, you may be responsible for pulling your items from the racks, and we'll assist if possible. Please bring something to put your items in to take with you.
- Although excellent care is always taken, items are left at the shop entirely at the owner's risk. The Lily Pad of Towson, LLC shall not be held responsible for damage by handling, loss by fire, or theft.
- I acknowledge that all articles left for consignment at The Lily Pad are subject to the above terms and conditions. I understand that if I want any unsold items returned to me I must appear to claim them by the last day of the consignment period.
